Consultation report:

After a 5-week treatment - candidiasis. No obvious improvement – at present the patient suffers from chronic fatigue, nervousness, disturbances of attention, problems falling asleep, shortness of breath and chest tightness, dyspnoea, low libido, indigestion and flatulence.

In the second and third week the patient started taking wormwood and black walnut extract – this contributed to some improvement, but for a few days now the patient's condition has been worse. Additionally, nigella (cold-pressed oil) and apricot kernels, spirulina, chlorella; the treatment plan also includes coriander.

The patient smokes 5 cigarettes a day.

The examination revealed resting tremor of the neck and head, during activity action tremor was observed, especially on the left-hand side, apart from that no significant deviations were observed.

Recommendations:

1. Diet according to written instructions
2. Continue taking herbs, but the doses should be reduced.
3. The therapy should be extended to include:
Nystatin 3 x 1
4. MORA therapy - at Nova Clinic, at ul. Kamieńskiego
5. If the patient generally feels better, doses of herbal medicines may be increased.
6. A follow-up examination after ca. 1 month; please bring CBC results, liver function test results, creatinine, urine, TSH.
7. If the symptoms intensify, tremors in particular:
Propranolol 10 mg should be taken as necessary, blood pressure and pulse should be monitored.
Lemon balm and St John's wort
